

Credits

The 'Supporting Children and Families in General Practice After a Natural Disaster or Community Trauma' e-learning resource was prepared by Emerging Minds as part of the National Workforce Centre for Child Mental Health initiative.

The content of this course is adapted from the Emerging Minds Community Trauma Toolkit. This toolkit contains over 200 resources for parents, health professionals, community leaders and first responders to assist them to support children and families following a natural disaster or community trauma.

Content Development

Development of this e-learning resource was a collaborative effort with a number of people contributing their knowledge, skills, and experience to the project. Emerging Minds and its partners wish to acknowledge their support and contribution to the resource.
